Using it — and filing it

What changed from the trainee concept

The speed lines inside the C made it read "SabiEars"; the C is now clean. The car-roof swoosh is dropped — hundreds of dealers use one, which weakens a trademark and blurs at small sizes. The swept tails on the first S and the last s — the concept's best idea — are redrawn as precise blades, mirrored so the name starts and finishes moving.

Two applications, not one

Register the word mark SABICARS (standard characters — protects the name in any lettering) and this logo as a device mark. Leave the tagline out, so it can change as the ecosystem grows.

Lettering

Exo 2 Black (SIL Open Font Licence, which permits use in a logo and its registration), converted to outlines; the blades are custom-drawn. The files need no font installed. Keep the space around the logo at least the height of the letter "a"; never stretch, outline, recolour or add effects.

Classes to discuss with the agent

35 (vehicle sales and dealership, advertising, the referral programme) · 36 (vehicle financing, the 40% Drive Plan) · 39 (transport, vehicle logistics) · 42 and 9 (the online platform and app). Ask for a clearance search first: "Sabi" alone is used by an unrelated Nigerian commodities business.

Files for the agent: trademark-logo-colour.jpg and trademark-logo-black.jpg (2400 px square, 300 dpi). Whether to file in colour (claiming Sabi Green and Sabi Orange) or in black (covering every colour) is the agent's advice to give.
